

WILDLIFE AT QUINTON CEMETERY

Areas of the cemetery which are not used for burial are important wildlife habitats. We are currently looking at ways to improve these habitats and encourage biodiversity, but there are already lots of plants, birds and animals to see in the cemetery.

Trees

English Oak

Silver Birch

Weeping Willow

There are also lots of other tree species including Goat Willow, Ash, Rowan and Elder.

Red Clover

Yarrow

Nettle

Wildflowers

Broadleaf Plantain

Also Thistle, Rosebay Willow Herb, Dock, Bramble, Wild Pansy, Common Daisy, Dandelion, Bull Rushes and Wild Carrot

Bird and Animals

Crow

Wood Pigeon

Grey Squirrel

And lots of other creatures live in or visit the cemetery including Magpies, Robins and Badgers.

This list will grow as we undertake wildlife surveys and learn about the biodiversity- including information about the insects and other mini beasts that live here.
